

Becoming a good and responsible individual employer

Good Boss Support Network is a support group for individual employers (IEs) or the people who represent them, across the UK. It is for individuals who use their Social Care Personal Budgets/direct payments (DPs) and/or Personal Health Budgets (PHBs) to employ personal assistants (PAs) to deliver the care and support they need to help them in all areas of independent living. Here, Sebastian Lynn, Admin Assistant, shares his experience of being involved in peer support.

As an individual employer, I have found it challenging to find the right person for the job. I have had to spend a lot of time and money on recruitment agencies, which can be quite expensive. I have also had to deal with a lot of bureaucracy and paperwork, which can be very time-consuming. I have found that the Good Boss Support Network has been a great help in this regard. They have provided me with a lot of support and advice, and have helped me to find the right person for the job. I have also been able to share my experiences with other individual employers, which has been very helpful.

One of the things I have learned from the Good Boss Support Network is the importance of having a clear job description and a set of criteria for the person you are looking for. This has helped me to narrow down my search and find someone who is a good fit for the job. I have also learned that it is important to have a good relationship with your personal assistant, and that this can be achieved through clear communication and a good working relationship.

I have also found that the Good Boss Support Network has been a great help in dealing with any issues that arise. They have provided me with a lot of support and advice, and have helped me to resolve any problems that I have had. I have also been able to share my experiences with other individual employers, which has been very helpful.

I would recommend the Good Boss Support Network to any individual employer who is looking for a personal assistant. They have provided me with a lot of support and advice, and have helped me to find the right person for the job. I have also been able to share my experiences with other individual employers, which has been very helpful.

I have also found that the Good Boss Support Network has been a great help in dealing with any issues that arise. They have provided me with a lot of support and advice, and have helped me to resolve any problems that I have had. I have also been able to share my experiences with other individual employers, which has been very helpful.

